i++) Video Game News with Jason

- World of Warcraft
 - Some PvE tuning will happen this upcoming Tuesday. DK frost getting 5% damage buff, Ret Pallys getting a Blade of Justice/Crusader Strike 10% damage buff, Rogues getting Mantle of the Master assassin reduced to 5 seconds. Arms warriors getting nerfed.
 - 7.3 elemental shamans getting some small changes. They're making Earthquake more attractive to cast, 29% increase, than before and increasing Earth Shock damage by 13% while decreasing Chain Lightning damage by 13%.
- Xbox One users might have seen a weird error message about My Little Pony called "Mock Error Title". There was a bug that let it be shown to live users. Silly dev's creating funny test messages that'd never be seen by end users unless they goof. :D
- Harmonix, creators of Guitar Hero, have a DJ remix game you play like a board game and the YouTube video makes it look like it could be fun. YouTube Link Can be connected to your tv, comes with 60 cards and a free app. $99.99 this fall could be steep.
- Let's talk about Alex Mauer who looks to have gone off the deep end. It sucks that she's being harassed for wanting more money from the music she's made that being used in games and posts but she's going about this in all the wrong way filing DMCA takedown notices against YouTuber and Twitch videos taking down games and podcasts. Some people have been in support of her because she's transgender.
- A Pokemon Go Fest hosted in Chicago and attended by between 15-20,000 people ended in disaster as those lucky enough to get into the gates found they couldn't catch anything as their devices were overloading the cell networks in the area. Those who could occasionally connect were unable to catch anything because of the string of errors being generated by the app. People lined up at 6am and spent as much as $400 for tickets. Niantic ended up giving everyone who attended a rare Pokemon Go character to make up for the disaster.
- Chromium, open source project behind Google Chrome, Opera and several other browsers is going to support MP3 which means users and websites will be able to play mp3 files natively in the browser. They got the approval from their legal to finally add MP3 into non-proprietary codec lists.

i++) Jason's Techy Talk

- The U.S. & Australia are testing hypersonic missiles which would be capable of hitting any target on the planet within an hour and would be virtually impossible to stop using the existing missile defenses.
- Verizon accused of throttling Netflix and YouTube has admitted to "video optimization" which means they're capping data transfers on their mobile network at 10Mbps. Verizon acknowledged they have a new video optimization system. There are reports that you can prevent this throttling by using a VPN service.
- Michigan will build 25 self-driving trolleys this year. The company Navya announced its first manufacturing facility to build self-driving trolleys. The max speed on these will be 27mph but they'll typically travel around 12mph and can transport up to 15 people.
