

Inglorious Geeks - Episode 2

1) Greetings

2) Jason's Corner

- Blizzard's blue posts
  - i. New legion beta changes – Notes from MMO-Champion
    1. 3 raid tiers coming in Legion! Two at release and another in patch 7.2 and 1 more later
    2. 3 content patches
    3. Patch 7.1 contains a new dungeon and released fairly quickly
    4. New caster animations
    5. Improved social features
    6. Plan for a better release pacing in Legion
    7. Tier 19 sets look fantastic
    8. There's a possibility of cosmetic items in the current content, WoD, such as quivers, ammo packs and spell books.
    9. Fishing artifact – has its own tree allowing you to teleport to the nearest fishing node, walk on water and turning into a fish so you can breathe underwater and swim fast.
    10. It'll take months to max out the weapon artifact traits.
    11. Goal is to keep dungeons relevant for a long time in Legion
- 3D printing
  - Wow 3D import
    - Wow model viewer –1.6x the size model test - failed
- Mirror's Edge Catalyst
  - Unattainable world time trials.
  - Main story line isn't bad though they leave you to have to read the comics if you want to know why Faith was in juvie.
    - Flashbacks to how her parents died.
    - Noah & Dogen
  - Makes me feel like it is a continuation of the game but with aspects from today's games like the open world aspect of it from DICE's Frostbite 3 engine.
    - I enjoy the skill point trees you fill as you progress in levels giving you a little sense of control over leveling your toon though quite a few are locked by having to perform specific runs that are part of the story arc.
    - Decent graphics
    - Challenging finding fast paths to beat time trial runs but part of the fun.
    - Load times, ugh.
    - I enjoy the combat and idea of the shield you generate by running.
